Darlin' Deals Review & Giveaway ~ Fairhaven Health Dream Belly Products!

April 22, 2014 by Darlin' Deals • 17 Comments

Disclaimer: I received complimentary Dream Belly products to review. I was not persuaded to write a positive review. All thoughts and opinions are my own.

Being pregnant is such a joyous occasion knowing that in just a few months you will have a precious baby to love and care for! Its a wonderful time in a woman's life and there are so many amazing changes that your body goes through during gestation. Of course pregnancy also comes with its fair share of worries too, one being the dreaded fear of getting stretch marks. With my first pregnancy I was extremely worried about getting stretch marks especially during the last few weeks when my belly seemed to triple in size in a matter of days 😊 Luckily I was one of the few women that didn't get stretch marks, but that didn't stop me from having the same fear of getting those sneaky little purple lines on my belly during this second pregnancy. Thankfully I was offered the opportunity to do a 2-part Review and Giveaway for Fairhaven Health's maternity and nursing products including Dream Belly Cream and Butter.

Needless to say I was thrilled at the chance to review Dream Belly Cream and Butter. Dream Belly products are created to prevent and revitalize the quickly stretching skin of a woman's belly during pregnancy. They are made of natural ingredients and are designed to keep skin smooth and supple.

I tried each product individually for a few days to compare and see if there were any difference between the Cream and Butter. The Cream is more of a lotion consistency and absorbed into my skin well. It left my belly looking smooth and hydrated after each use and continued to stay smooth for hours. Personally I preferred the Butter, which is odd because I generally don't like the butter version of moisturizers because they tend to be greasier. This was not the case with Dream Belly's Butter, it is a creamy non-greasy consistency and appeared to moisturize my skin even better than the lotion! As an added perk to the butter I noticed that it's scent was much more subtle than the cream which is definitely important if you're sensitive to scents during your pregnancy.

Overall I was extremely impressed with both the Cream and Butter and would highly recommend purchasing them to keep your baby bump smooth and hydrated. These products would make wonderful Baby Shower gifts or even an earlier pregnancy gift for a friend or family member!
